

Submit Your Story

ALM's "Live Locally Alabama" campaign is specifically designed to educate our citizens about what takes place at the local government level and to encourage civic mindfulness and engagement. While we strive to think globally, we live locally – and municipal government is responsible for the quality of life services, such as police, fire, parks, infrastructure, and economic development, that we not only expect but demand.

Live Locally Alabama is not only a resource for the public, but a platform to promote the positive accomplishments and progressive strides taking place in Alabama's cities and towns. Therefore, we need to hear from YOU!

Please submit a 250 to 500-word narrative that discusses a positive development in your community such as the opening of a park, grocery store or new economic development project or the renovation of a building/area, infrastructure upgrades, youth engagement programs, community festivals ... the list is endless! In addition, please submit one to three high resolution images (with captions) for us to include as well as your contact information should we need to clarify details. Once submitted, your information will be reviewed by ALM's Advocacy Team for use on LiveLocallyAlabama.org.

Please understand that we are developing a database of stories so yours may not appear on the website immediately. Also, your submission may be edited for space, grammatical quality, etc, as necessary.

Questions?

Contact Kayla Bass, ALM's Advocacy Communications Coordinator, at kaylab@alalm.org.